

A Message from George McKelvey Co. concerning Coronavirus

Dear Clients,

We wanted to share with you our response to the developing Coronavirus Crisis. First and foremost, we hope everyone is staying safe and healthy during this challenging time. Our executive team is monitoring the situation closely, and we have a comprehensive business continuity plan in place so that we are well prepared to respond to ongoing developments. We are of course complying with all local, State and Federal directives, and will continue to do so.

The office remains open with reduced staff, with many team members working remotely with full access to email and other key systems. If you need anything, call the main number, and your call will be routed to the appropriate person as quickly as possible. We stand ready to address any service request. If you should have a need to transfer funds either to or from your account, please speak with your account representative to discuss the best method.

Should a full shutdown of the office be necessary, we will be prepared. You may recall that in 2012, Hurricane Sandy hit our area with little warning and closed our physical office in Sea Girt for three weeks. The company has always had a contingency plan (Business Continuity Plan) and we put that plan into action. At the time, we had personnel scattered from Wall Township to as far away as Princeton. We did not miss a day of business for our clients. Since that time and learning from that experience, we have upgraded our systems considerably and are comfortable we can meet your needs during this difficult period and also keep our people as safe as possible.

We like to think that George McKelvey Co is more than just an Investment Advisor. We are a service organization—one that helps people prepare for their future. We believe what we do is important, and we're working hard to minimize any impact to you, our clients. Our teams will continue to provide timely, relevant information and resources to assist you.
